Our sixty-first anniversary

The past

The future

It's a long way back to Upland's founding in 1906

It's a long way back from Architect Paul Hershey's Kiosk promotion center to May 15, 1906, the date Upland was first incorporated into an official city.

The pictures above graphically dramatize the time distance in downtown Upland. At left is a view of Second Street about the time of 1906, according to Mrs. Myrtle Owen, Upland librarian, who loaned the News the old photograph. There are no automobiles on the scene which dates it pre-World War I.

At right above is the central theme of the about-to-get-off-the-ground downtown redevelopment. Observers believe Upland will look like this soon.

The Upland spirit, however seems to be the same.

According to early day writers, Upland always had a unique public conscientiousness that set it apart from Ontario Colony. Even back in 1906 it was a special place for residents to raise families away from the hustle and bustle of industry. This trend has continued until today.

Upland citizens petitioned the county board of supervisors to separate it from Ontario Colony four years prior to becoming a city. At that time, in 1902, the name was also changed from North Ontario to Upland, taking its new title from a fruit exchange which guaranteed its oranges were raised in up-land groves.

The downtown development program is just another step by Uplanders to retain their city's personality in a modern world.

It is designed to enhance the downtown area's historic early American buildings with an Old World atmosphere that is to be both esthetically pleasing and conveniently functionable.

The park-like Kiosk and beautified streets and alleys are designed to blend with the new Upland library which is scheduled to go into construction soon.

Put them together with the quality residential homes being built in Upland and that distance back to 1906 is a long, long way indeed.

Chaffey takes first step...

Some insurance now open for bids

Part of Chaffey Union High School District's insurance program has been opened to a wider selection of companies to compete for the business.

The change came Monday at a four hour session of the board of trustees. It involved the comprehensive general liability insurance coverage.

Bidding was opened to insurance agents as well as brokers but a high requirement of responsibility was retained for competing companies.

Only insurance firms within the district will be considered for contracts and notice of specifications of the insurance program will be published in a county newspaper of general circulation.

In case of identical bids, the flip of a coin will decide the successful bidder.

These were the highlights of action taken following a heated discussion by board members climaxed by Paul Cushing's motion to disband the district's insurance committee and have the whole board consider insurance matters.

"You're out of order," said Mrs. Mary B. Hecht. "That motion can only be considered in July when the board reorganizes."

"Well, I'll make the motion then," returned Cushing. "Unless the insurance committee functions there is no need in having one in existence."

The motion died from lack of a second.

Gene Alair, of Ontario, a broker consultant to the board, told the trustees the new procedures would attract a fair representation of the county's insurance firms in the bidding.

Final authority on whether to accept or not, he said, would still rest with the board.

Bernard Naftel, of the Empire Company, insurance, Upland, appeared before the board to urge retention of the high responsibility ratings for competing firms. He also sought action opening the bidding to insurance agents as well as to brokers.

"You've had criticism for your handling of insurance matters," Naftel said, some of which wasn't justified. But now please don't lower the quality of your insurance coverage by allowing fly-by-night companies to bid on the contracts."

Trustee Cushing said the committee also had support from the district's citizens. Naftel agreed with him and remarked that the fact the incumbents were re-elected was really a "vote of confidence."

Finally, the board passed a resolution including the comprehensive and $100 deductible collision insurance previously carried under another policy in the comprehensive general liability insurance coverage.

It required companies making proposals to have a Best Insurance Guide rating of assets of $23 million or more. Agencies to be considered must also have been in business five years or more, be within the district, and must have a full time staff available to give service.

In another action Tuesday the board authorized an application for federal funds to participate in a school work program for deserving students under the Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

It marks the first venture of the district under the program which other district's in the county have adopted previously.

Olivedale residents protest park work

A Pop Warner football league working party felled three prominent trees in Upland's Olivedale Park Sunday and city council chambers were jammed with protesting residents of the area Tuesday night at the city council meeting.

"My God! Don't desecrate our park and bring all that noise out there on Sunday," exclaimed one spokesman for the protesting property owner.

Councilmen, faced with the irate citizens in a gavel-rapping meeting in which Mayor James Christensen lost his temper once, then apologized, promised to stop all work on the proposed Pop Warner football field until the situation is reviewed in depth.

Councilman Ronald Rossitter made the motion freezing the work.

"We had no idea there was such opposition to the football field," he said. "The action was publicized in the Upland News and we thought the Park and Recreation committee was on firm ground in recommending it."

The chamber, which holds 50 seated spectators, was overflowing and some citizens were standing in the hall. The crowd was dominated by residents around the park although Pop Warner League officials were also present.

Pop Warner League volunteers appeared at the park Sunday with a bulldozer to clear a gridiron for the youth football games which are scheduled to be played on Sundays. Three trees were taken down and the ground prepared.

The city in previous action had voted to allow the league the use of the park. The council authorized the city manager's staff to supervise the volunteer work.

As a result of the public outcry, councilmen Tuesday took a second look at its plans for recreation on other parks. Officials of the Pony League were asked to canvas the neighborhood around Hawkins field to see if there was any property owner objection to the proposed lighting of that site for night Pony league baseball games.

* * *

"I'm beginning to realize there are two sides to this question of recreation," said Councilman George Gibson, chairman of the parks and recreation committee. "We intend to continue to provide recreational opportunity for our youngsters, but we're also going to give full consideration to the residents living in the area."

A petition, containing 130 names, opposing conversion of Olivedale Park into a Pop Warner Football field was presented the council.

In the arguments which followed, spokesmen for the residents insisted each speaker before the council give his address.

"Where you live has a good deal to do with how you feel about recreation in our parks," they said.

Sister city committee to meet

The Upland Town Affiliation Committee will meet May 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall, to hear further reports on cities in Mexico being considered as the possible Sister City to Upland.

Mrs. Douglass Black will act as Chairman for the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Zella Stone.

City takes stand on legislative bills

Upland city council Tuesday took strong stands on bills pending in the California legislature and instructed Mayor James Christensen to send telegrams to Sacramento following the meeting.

Most of the council opposition centered around the Quimby bill now in the legislative hopper which City Manager Elwin Alder pointed out would give 50 per cent of the city's fine and forfeiture money to the county and increase the local city tax rate by 5 cents.

"We have to act fast on these bills," said Councilman Zella Stone. "Unless the legislature hears from us its members will think we are not opposed."

"No other county in the state has a 50 per cent turn-over to the county," Alder said. "Under the new law already in effect Upland loses 2.9 cents of its tax rate to the county in fine and forfeiture money. It can get worse."

In a split 3/2 vote the council favored a telephone in lieu tax bill that would give the city a franchise fee from the company.

Councilman Rossitter and Mayor Christensen voted against it on the grounds it was merely a hidden tax and that the telephone company would only add the fee onto its phone bills.

"I just don't like hidden taxes," said Rossitter.

The city also opposed a legislative bill that would make cities responsible for damage to private property within the city limits resulting from mob violence.

It favored the Collier-Unruh gas tax bill which would eliminate some matching requirements for cities to qualify to receive the gas tax money. It opposed a bill which would make mandatory certain police equipment for city departments. "Before you know it," Councilman Stone remarked, "they'll also be telling us how large and how much we should pay our departments."

Councilman Max Hawkins, chairman of the legislative and tax committee, presented the bills to the council for consideration.

Councilman Rossitter asked city manager Alder if a letter had been sent Bert Stolpe informing him his firm could still apply for a franchise to serve Upland with cable TV.

The manager hadn't and Rossitter urged the letter be sent soon.

"I want him to understand that we granted a non-exclusive franchise only to his competitor, and that the door is still open for him to apply for a franchise if he wishes," Rossitter said.

City Manager Alder reported that Tuesday a $1.2 million bond issue was sold for improvements to the Ontario-Upland sewerage disposal plant at a high 4.767 per cent interest rate.

"Interest is coming high these days," he said, "and we must allow for it in our planning for the civic center, downtown redevelopment and library."

Upland court will close on July 1

On July 1 there will no longer be an Upland Judicial court. It will be merged with the Ontario Municipal Court and moved to that city as the West Valley Municipal Court.

The San Bernardino county board of supervisors voted unanimously Tuesday to effect the change in line with a plan announced last February to create a single San Bernardino County Municipal Court.

Robert A. Covington, administrative officer, was instructed to integrate necessary personnel now assigned to the Upland Judicial District with the Ontario Court so that transition in location and work assignments can be effective July 1.

Four divisions will serve various sections of the county under the merger outline.

The next development expected is the creation of a "Central Valley Municipal Court," which will set a merger of Fontana, Bloomington and Rialto Judicial Districts.

Also planned in the West End is merger of the Cucamonga and Etiwanda Judicial Districts pending ultimate merger with one of the nearby municipal court divisions.

Councilman Ronald Rossitter

Now a Republican

Councilman Ronald Rossiter has told THE NEWS that he has changed his voter registration from Democratic to Republican.

He said that he "felt more comfortable" with the change because of a variety of issues, covering civil rights, Vietnam, the CDC, budgetary position, etc.

Mr. Rossitter said he did not want to "run down" any party or individual, for the United States needed both parties and strong individuals in both parties; however, he felt that the switch was bringing him more in line with his thinking these days.

The Upland Councilman recalled that he first became aware of U.S. party politics in England when Franklin D. Roosevelt was President and had such an impact in world affairs. So it was "natural that I became a Democrat when I came to the U.S.," he pointed out.

He noted that he became aware of an uncomfortable feeling with the CDC affair of recent years, and finally decided to make the change.

Final budget set for June adoption

City council will consider the final budget for 1967-68 in its June 20 meeting but few additional changes are expected by the finance committee.

Monday the full council approved a tentative budget of $2,530,612 that contained an overall 6.83 per cent wage increase for city employes as well as fringe benefits including recognition of longevity, meritorious and overtime pay.

The police department received the biggest pay increases in line with the national upgrading of law enforcement agencies. Most of it was in the form of overtime pay.

Upland firemen requested similar wage hikes but the council denied the boosts. The final budget will put that department's pay scale on the same level as the Ontario fire department.

Monday the full council, sitting as a finance committee, earmarked $11,500 for the Upland chamber of commerce. Councilman Ronald Rossitter was critical of chamber officials for not appearing before the committee to outline their intended use of the money.

Fun-after-fifty club makes plans

The Upland Senior Citizen's "Fun After Fifty" Club met for its regular potluck meeting in the newly enlarged club room at Memorial Park. Earl Hawthorne, Milton Tees, Daniel Engle and Jack Pritchard shared the opening ceremonies.

Ruth Bancroft announced that the yearly birthday party will be held at 6 p.m., June 27, at the Upland Women's Club. Good entertainment is assured. For reservations and information call Mrs. Leslie Griffith at 982-3373 or Mrs. Bernice Bloomfield at 982-8543.

The club was invited to attend the Upland Presbyterian Church on Mother's Day May 14, a repitition of last year's visit.

Mrs. Alice Wirl announced that all the seats for the San Diego back-country tour have been sold.

Mr. Hawthorne called for everyone to procure their new membership cards as soon as possible.

Olie White read an invitation to another dance sponsored by the Ontario Fun Era Club at 217 South Lemon Ave., music being supplied by Mr. Child's Dance Band "The Dreamers". The last dance in April was announced a great success.

Five visitors including Mrs. Douglas Eccles were noted and two new members listed: Lucille Furvois and Diana Amiot.

Earl Hawthorne was unanimously selected as the outstanding "man of the year" to accept the award presented each year by the San Bernardino County Council of Community Service.

Xi Gamma Kappa attends concert

Xi Gamma Kappa Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met on their regular meeting night at Gardiner Spring Auditorium and attended the concert given by the West End Symphony Orchestra Thursday, May 4.

The tickets were obtained from a member of the orchestra in an act of friendship. All members enjoyed the program very much.

After the concert, members journeyed to the home of member Mrs. John McGrogan for refreshments and a short business meeting was held. A report was given on the Founders Day Ceremonies held recently at the Mural House in Ontario by Foothill Area Council. Six members received perfect attendance awards for the year.

Discussed at the meeting were announcements for the Exemplar ritual to be held later this month and the chapter birthday party to be held the first week in June.

It was also announced that the next meeting would include installation of new officers for the coming year. The new slate of officers are: President, Mrs. Robert Hart; vice president, Mrs. Ed Brown; recording secretary, Mrs. Ed Strauss; corresponding secretary, Mrs. John McGrogan; treasurer, Mrs. Frank Nay; civil defense, Mrs. C. County's residential assessment consistent

Richard Nevins, Southern California Member of the State Board of Equalization, Monday reported that the San Bernardino County Assessor's percentage of full value for residential property has reached a high degree of consistency.

The 1966 Assessment Reform Law requires his agency to publish information on these findings. The variance for residential property in San Bernardino County was 10% on the average from the Board-found median for all residential properties.

Nevins said, "Nationwide experience indicates that a variance of less than 20% is a good record and that a 10% variance is excellent."

"The State Board's independent appraisals of residential, rural, industrial, and commercial properties chosen at random," Nevins continued, "shows the percentage of full value for all property in sample varied 23% based on our 1964 survey of the 1963 roll. Other categories do not meet the same standard of excellence as residential properties." Nevins said, "However, the San Bernardino County Assessor is making great strides in reappraising these properties now that he has additional staff and well established training programs. We anticipate our 1967 survey will reflect progress. The variance for other properties indicate rural 32%, commercial 51% and industrial 21%.

"The Board's sample appraisals are part of its responsibility to achieve uniform assessment of properties throughout the state. Its sample surveys are taken in each county every three years. San Bernardino County is scheduled to be surveyed again in 1967 on the basis of the 1966 roll," Nevins concluded.

Did you know that aspirin, which can be bought for a few cents a bottle, is one of the most successfully used drugs in the treatment of arthritis? The Arthritis Foundation quotes a staggering figure of $435 million spent annually for medications for arthritis, of which $250 million is wasted on worthless drugs and remedies.

Has own Beatles

With the rise of the Beatles, the world became a stage upon which those young men could air their "Yeah, Yeah, Yeah's" while the rest of their human counterparts screamed off key in unison or stuck fingers in their ears.

Later the world hosted the Monkeys in the same manner, and it is now making a place in space for the most recent psychodelic groups.

In tune with the times, the Upland area can now boast their own foursome, a group called the "Sounds of Night." Members include Doyle Fant, Dick Cranston, Bruce Dunn, and Roger St. Antoine. The boys specialize in rock and roll, and rhythm and blues.

Fant and Dunn have had previous experience in the field. As the "Sounds of Night," they have played at private parties and at Manhattan Beach for Cal Poly. Coming engagements include a class reunion and a wedding. For further information, they can be contacted at 982-9718 or 982-2389.

Life-saving course set for Upland

A Red Cross Senior Life Saving course will be given at Foothill Swim Club, 8141 San Bernardino Road, Upland, from 6:30 to 8 p.m. Monday, May 29 through June 9.

The course is designed to aid those seeking summer employment as life guards.

Flood Control slates 6th St. improvements

San Bernardino County Flood Control District will construct improvements this summer to the 6th St. outlet and 8th St. basins, between Campus and Grove Aves., in the city of Ontario, near the boundaries of Cucamonga, Upland and Ontario.

The project includes, in general, basin levee construction: construction of a reinforced concrete box culvert at 6th St with inlet and outlet structures and a spillway, a basin drain, and other miscellaneous construction work.

Estimated cost of the project is $77,100.

Notice for inviting bids will be issued May 22, with bids to be received by June 6. The contract is to be awarded June 12 and construction is to start July 3. Anticipated completion is Oct. 1.

The improvements, allowed for in the last year's Zone 1 Flood Control District budget, is designed to prevent heavy rains washing out 6th St. at the Cucamonga channel and to contain excess water for more gradual runoff.

Witnesses show movie

"Movies are better than ever!" was the opinion of 2,522 persons who saw the movie "God Cannot Lie" that was shown at the "Supply to Your Faith Endurance" circuit meeting of Jehovah's Witnesses held at the Los Angeles County Fairground in Pomona May 14.

The Watchtower Society produced color film developed the story of the Bible, from Genesis to Revelation, showing vivid evidence of the fulfillment of Bible prophecies proving that God cannot lie.

Highlights of the film took viewers to the actual locations of many of the Bible accounts in the Holy Land and other locations in the Near East. Seeing these locations named in the Bible gave strong reasons to believe the Bible's testimony concerning God's word.

Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Acuna, 8798 9th St., Cucamonga, are the parents of a boy born April 24 at San Antonio Community Hospital.

OH, BROTHER!--The two fellows above are brothers in "Ask Any Girl," and the gal is trying to 'hook' the playboy (seated) Dan Griffeth plays the role of the hard-to-get bachelor and Bernadette Bernardi is his captive audience. The Uplander standing in chagring is the older brother, Dave Covill in real life.

'Ask Any Girl' opens at Upland High School

By Pat Boughey

Tonight and Friday, May 19, at 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. respectively, in the Upland High School Auditorium audiences will view the production of "Ask Any Girl," a three-act comedy from the novel by Winifred Wolfe. The motion picture version of this play was held over for weeks in New York.

Meg Wheeler, the wide-eyed, husband-seeking, fresh-out-of-college career girl, goes to new York to get away from her stifling home town, but mainly to catch a guy.

Meg's homemade tactics had no effect on the mathematically- inclined Miles Doughton, head of an advertising firm. The never-say die Meg avails herself on Doughton's younger brother, Evan, Miles would like to see his run-around brother settle down, so he comes to Meg's aid. The result of their Cupid acts are--well, seeing is believing, or in this case, seeing is finding out the outcome for yourself!

The play, under the direction of Miss Beulah B. Bayles, features Bernadette Bernardi as Meg Wheeler, Dave Covill as Miles Doughton, and Dan Griffith as Evan Doughton. Other Upland students in the play are as follows:

AN EDITORIAL

Upland has always been different than Ontario

It is interesting to note that a basic difference between Upland and Ontario existed back on May 15, 1906, as it does today.

That was the day the city of Upland officially was incorporated under the city manager form of government. It followed by four years the withdrawal of what was known as North Ontario from Ontario Colony.

The withdrawal was allowed by the county board of supervisors on a petition of North Ontario citizens overwhelmingly favoring self government.

Charles D. Adams suggested the name, Upland, which was taken from the Upland Fruit Exchange he operated which guaranteed its fruit came from up-land groves.

The withdrawal was a natural outgrowth of the business and civic development of the area distinct from that of Ontario. North Ontario (Upland) had the new Algonquin Hotel, now the Upland Inn, which was built in 1901. Other businesses were operating and a fine residential section was under way.

Upland citizens, then as now, felt they wanted to control their own destiny and not be managed by Ontario which had its own future to look after.

So the logical happened. The early day leadership exerted itself and incorporation into a city came about by popular demand.

It is also interesting to note that then, as now, The Upland News was reflecting the wishes of its readers and providing unity of action for the community.

THE NEWS, owned by W. C. Westland, had changed its name from the North Ontario News to The Upland News as a gesture on independence on Independence Day, July 4, 1902. It stayed in the forefront of the battle for independence until victory was won.

* * *

Doesn't history have a familiar ring to it?

City Manager Elwin Alder said yesterday Upland can look forward to a different future than Ontario. "We can anticipate growth as a quality residential community with only light industrial development," he said, "while Ontario will continue to go toward heavy industry."

The manager pointed out that Upland has a higher per capita income than Ontario, and that its residential property valuation averages greater.

"These are distinct differences that take a unique type of planning," Alder said. "By and large we attract a citizen who is interested in a pleasant, convenient, small town in which to raise a family."

This then is Upland, 1967, on its Sixty-First Anniversary as a city. It is still unique with its own personality and future, and with a distinct difference from its neighbor, Ontario.

Before I Forget

By Mel Hodell

It's budget time in the high school district.

And it's time that consideration of the service road at Upland High School be included in that budget.

Everyone and everything is ready to put in the service road--except allocating the money in the budget.

The plans for the service road have been completed for the rocky, dusty, unsafe long strip of ground on Foothill Blvd. East of San Antonio.

This long strip of unimproved land is used for parking and traffic in events related to the high school football field, the tennis courts, and baseball fields.

Cars must be driven through broken out curbing, or over the curb. Then cars are parked in helter-skelter fashion amid rocks and dirt, amid weeds.

A great traffic hazard is apparent because of cars slowing down to try to get onto the dirt strip, while other drivers are trying to go straight through Upland along Foothill.

The City of Upland has a wonderful beautification program for Foothill Blvd.

But the long high school strip of land is the most ugly and unkept strip. Upland and Upland High School should be ashamed for allowing this to continue any longer.

The struggle to get this land improved has gone on now for several years.

Everybody has gotten into the act. But the Board of Trustees of the high school district so far have refused to improve the strip.

Now is the chance. The UHS service road project must be placed in the budget this year, and not knocked out.

The safety of those walking and driving in the vicinity warrants it. Certainly pride in our City and in our high school warrant it.

Everybody in Upland wants a service road at UHS this summer!

"It pops," says Dad

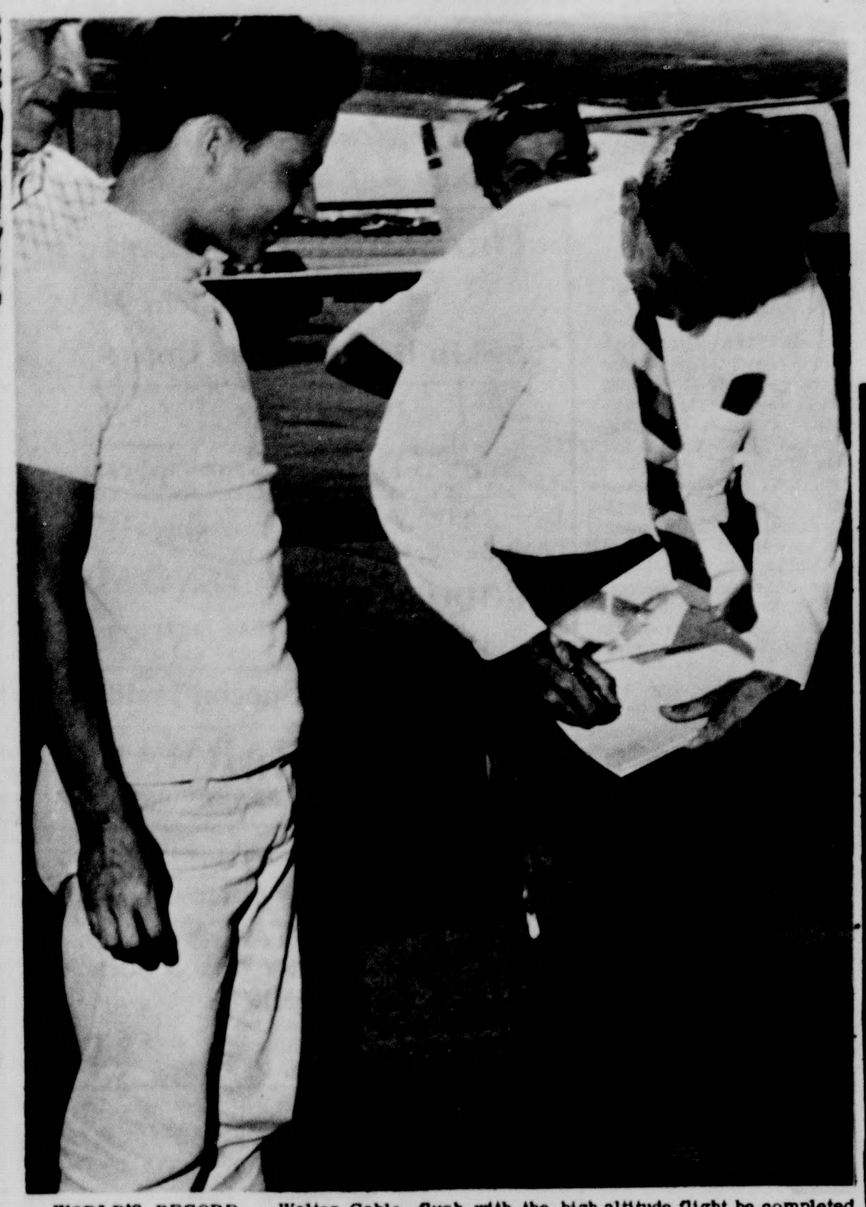

What happens to a boy's balloon at 25,000 feet?

Son Robbie, 11-years-old, handed him a balloon he had just blown up as he took off on the high flight with instructions to see what happens.

At 25,000 feet there was an explosion that frightened officials who were in radio contact with the plane on its record breaking flight.

"The balloon pops," father Cable reported to his son.

WORLD'S RECORD -- Walter Cable, flush with the high altitude flight he completed Sunday which broke his own world's record, signs an autograph for one of the hundreds of air-minded youngsters on hand for Open House ceremonies at Cable Airport, Upland.

Letter to editor..

Just what did go on?

Dear Mr. Hodell:

The CATV editorial was precise and well written. It gave the council and city attorney due credit.

You don't tell a publisher that he wrote a good editorial any more than you would tell a bus driver that he has driven his bus well.

You stated fact but, apparently, facts to the majority of your council are to be completely ignored. To his credit, your mayor questioned the wisdom of proceeding with a situation that was already sticky.

Most people don't realize it but generally speaking, newspapers point out the rotten trees in a beautiful forest. This takes intestinal fortitude in cities the size of yours and I commend you for it. When the chips are down, there are few men of journalistic courage today, so I say, "Salud."

I do not envy your daily task if your council acts upon illegal material as flagrantly as they did the CATV decision. Little wonder that only one bid was received. There was no need to worry about our capability to produce when our area and local investors show more than $1,100,000 in net worth and we had one of the top CATV engineers in the state as our key executive. Who is kidding whom? Just what did go on in Upland? Can this conduct be Upland tradition? Possibly, Uplanders better wake up.

The conduct and judicious action of your council was not only far beneath its level of principle but beneath its dignity. They erred and they know it!

What kind of mental jujitsu your council went through to not cancel the single CATV bid and clear the illegal blot on the ground rules is difficult to understand.

It is the small black spot on the pure white table cloth which makes the beauty of the whole disappear. The CATV action is a tattle-tale stain on Upland's character. Let us then be about our business and avoid this type of snare in the future. It cost us plenty of dollars but the loss has cast no reflection upon our name. Sorry the Beverly Hills boys were favored instead of your neighbors and friends.

Dates to remember

Here are historical dates of Upland and the surrounding area which may be of interest on the Sixty-First Anniversary of the city. Dates were taken from the book, George Chaffey, by J. A. Alexander.

SPANISH ERA

1774-- All lands along the foothills between San Gabriel Mission and San Bernardino belonged to the mission.

1839--Spain decreed confiscation of all missions and lands. This brought about a decline of influence and value.

MEXICAN ERA

1822--California came under Mexican rule.

1839--Gov. Alvarado of California grants Cucamonga Rancho (two league) to Don Tapio of Los Angeles. He built a fortress at Red Hill high point and planted a grape orchard.

AMERICAN OCCUPATION

1846-- State comes under American rule.

1850--Admitted into the Union.

1857--Second home was built in the area, a red brick house on Carnelian Avenue, Cucamonga, now restored by Ed Matsinger.

1874--Third home built on corner near what is now Etiwanda and Highlands Avenue by Captain Joseph Garcia, a retired sailor.

1880--George Chaffey comes from Canada. He is soon followed by his brother, W. B. Chaffey.

SECOND ERA

1883--San Antonio Water Company organized. Ontario Power Company formed and Chaffey Agricultural College founded.

1885--Chaffey College opened to students.

1886--George Chaffey is invited to Australia to develop that country. W. B. Chaffey sells his interests to Ontario Land and Improvement Company.

1887-1889--Peak of real estate boom.

1898--George Chaffey returns from Australia. He saves Ontario Colony from drought by developing new water sources.

1901--First half new hotel in North Ontario (Upland) is built by E. P. Chaffey. It is named Alsonguin Hotel (now Upland Inn.)

MODERN ERA

1902--North Ontario withdraws from Ontario Colony. Name of Upland suggested by Charles D. Adams and adopted.

1905--Chaffey College closed and building demolished.

1906--Upland incorporated under city manager type of government.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale McCann, 449 Terry Way, Upland, are the parents of a boy born April 25 at San Antonio Community Hospital.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES..

by Jack Harper

It appears from here that the San Bernardino county Democratic committee is a bit naive in assuming better government would result if voter registration was eliminated and mass voting occurred.

"The problem is not to stop people from voting twice," chairman Phil Dreyer said when he proposed the plan to the committee. "The problem is to get them to vote once."

With some objections, the committee voted to send the resolution to the state central committee asking that it study replacement of the voter registration system. It listed expense -- about $50,000 per county per year in California --and easier rights to vote as reasons recommending it.

* * *

Perhaps I'm like most policemen and all newspapermen--I'm cynical.

Having watched political shennanigans for years, I believe some politicians, some pressure groups and even some political parties will do ANYTHING to win an election.

* * *

The very real problem facing the country is not to get everyone to merely vote once, but it is to get everyone to vote once responsibly. The need, if you think about it some, is not for mass voting, but for an enlightened, informed and honest electorate which fully understands the issues. In this way only can a democracy operate effectively.

There are many examples of other countries which have whopping turn-outs of 90 plus percentages of their voters in rigged elections. You only have to look to South America or behind the iron curtain where there are laws requiring everyone to vote.

Mass, uninformed voting lends itself to rigging.

* * *

It is true that vote buying as was practiced in America's large cities and in backward rural areas a century ago is a thing of the past. This is so because most people have become better informed and are proud of their ballot. That is, people who register to vote have become so.

However, mass voting on the scale suggested by the Democratic central committee could very well bring those conditions back; perhaps not outright vote buying but the more subtle kind -- the big lie, the big threat and the big promise.

* * *

The act of simply registering to vote which requires a minimum amount of interest and responsibility certainly is not too much to ask of any responsible American.

The key, I think, is that word "responsibility."

There has been a tremendous breakdown in responsibility among Americans in the past decade and the trend seems to be continuing. Let's not take another step in that direction by eliminating registration to vote.

A more laudable goal for the central committee, I think, would be to sponsor information campaigns of such intensity as to bring out an informed electorate.

West End Foster Parent Association being formed

Foster parents of this area are forming a West End Foster Parents Association, and all foster parents and anyone interested in foster homes, have been invited to the group's first meeting at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, May 24, in Merton Hill Auditorium of Chaffey High School.

Temporary chairman Mrs. Barbara Belke of 4811 Orchard, Montclair, said all kinds of foster parents would be members of the Association, including the licensed babysitters who provide day care for working mothers.

* * *

In the area from Fontana to the County Line there are over 250 foster homes, Mrs. Belke said.

Impetus was given home care for some children when the state decided it was less expensive and better for the children to live in foster homes than in state institutions.

Larger school districts, such as Ontario-Montclair, have been required by the State to provide classrooms for retarded children, such as those the state is moving out of Pacific State Hospital.

* * *

Retarded children are placed by the State with parents who are qualified to give the particular individual the care required, Mrs. Belke says.

Juvenile delinquents is another common picture, and some foster children may be nearly in that category, but they too are only part of the story.

The County Welfare Department is charged with the job of finding homes for such children where they can be redirected toward better goals in an environment away from the one that contributed to anti-social activities.

One of the biggest groups of children that foster homes care for, according to Mrs. Belke, a foster parent of five and none of her own, are the children of parents who couldn't or wouldn't provide for them in homes they need.

"It's not the kids who aren't making it, but their parents," Mrs. Belke said.

Sometimes it's alcohol, sometimes some other reason, emotional or otherwise, that makes it impossible for parents to cope with life and raising children.

* * *

Foster parents currently are facing problems, not from their foster parent activities, nor county and state agencies that license them, but from cities adopting ordinances limiting the number of foster children in private homes.

Montclair recently set a limit of five. Ontario is working on an ordinance that has a limit too low to suit the foster parents.

The State agencies would let some parents care for as many as 15 children, Mrs. Belke says. The County sets six as a maximum in most cases, but if a family of children numbering more than six came under the protection of County Welfare, the County would try to keep them altogether in one foster home.

Foster parents fail to see why they can't have more than five foster children when some parents have nine or 10 in one home.

Mrs. Belke can name some families that have nine or 10 children, but she has only five, all above the age of 10, and one who has been with her since the age of 10, and is now 17.

Foster parents generally mean a husband and wife, but one type of single parent is desired by County Welfare, Mrs. Belke says: single women who can take care of a teenage girl.
